Movement 8

Mission: Sent in Love

Carrying Jesus' Life Into Your World

Carrying Jesus' Life Into Your World

A Movement of Overflow, Love, and Spirit-Led Presence

Mission is not pressure. Mission is not performance. Mission is not a spiritual task you must accomplish.

Mission is the natural overflow of a life rooted in Jesus: identity → community → gifts → love in motion.

You are sent because you are loved. And you are sent to love.

Mission is not something you do for Jesus. It's something you do with Jesus.

This is why the Great Commission is really the Great CO-mission:

“Go…”

“I am with you…”

You are never sent alone.

Let This Truth Settle

Mission is not a burden. Mission is not an obligation. Mission is not a test of your spiritual strength.

Mission is Jesus continuing His earthly mission through you.

He still seeks. He still saves. He still heals. He still draws. He still loves.

And He does it through His people - through you!

Scripture Reflection

Matthew 28:19-20 - Go and Make Disciples

Highlights:

Jesus sends us with His authority

We go with Him, not for Him

Discipleship is relational and ongoing

His presence is the promise

Acts 1:8 - You Will Be My Witnesses

Highlights:

The Spirit empowers mission

Witness is identity, not performance

Mission begins where you already are

2 Corinthians 5:17-20 - Ambassadors of Reconciliation

Highlights:

We carry the message of reconciliation

God makes His appeal through us

Mission flows from new identity

To Fuel Your Faith

“Mission is not an assignment; it’s an overflow.”

The Heart of Mission

Mission begins in the heart of Jesus.

Before you ever speak a word or take a step, Jesus is already at work in the lives of the people around you. Mission is simply joining Him, noticing where He is moving, listening for His nudges, and offering your presence, compassion, and story.

Mission is not something you manufacture. It’s something you participate in.

Mission is in your spiritual DNA because His life is now in you.

Even if you feel fear, insecurity, or uncertainty, the Spirit gives you:

guidance

words

boldness

confidence

faith

You carry His mission in your heart because it is His heart that all may know Him the way you do.

And you wouldn’t know Him without someone carrying His mission to you.

Witness Is Sharing What You’ve Seen

You don’t “do witnessing.” You are a witness.

You simply share what you’ve:

seen in your own life

witnessed in the lives of others

discovered in Scripture

experienced in prayer

received from Jesus

You offer peace, life, joy, reassurance, hope, and purpose, because these are the things Jesus has given you.

Mission Is for All of Us

Mission is not reserved for pastors, evangelists, or the spiritually gifted.

Mission is the calling of every believer because Christ lives in you.

Mission is not a personality type. Mission is not a spiritual specialty. Mission is the overflow of Jesus' life in every disciple.

Mission Is Carried Out In Community

You are not commissioned alone. You are commissioned as part of a people.

Jesus sent His disciples together. The Spirit fell on a community. The early church carried the gospel as a family on mission.

Mission is not complete until someone is welcomed into a community where they can:

belong

be safe

be loved

be formed

be renewed

be sent

We don't simply "share Jesus" and walk away. We invite people into a family that embodies Him.

And the only reason you know Jesus today is because someone carried His mission to you and welcomed you into the community of grace.

The L.I.F.E. Framework - Living In Faithful Expression

Mission becomes simple and natural when you see it as four everyday expressions of Jesus' life in you:

L - Love Through Presence

Being attentive, available, and compassionate where you already are.

I - Intercede Through Prayer

Asking God to move in the lives of the people around you.

F - Faithfully Share Your Story

Speaking naturally about what Jesus has done in your life.

E - Express Jesus Through Service

Meeting needs, showing kindness, practicing generosity.

This is mission in everyday life. This is mission without pressure. This is mission as overflow.

Where We Feel Resistance

It's normal to feel resistance when we think about mission.

You may feel:

unsure

unqualified

afraid of saying the wrong thing

worried about being rejected

too busy or too tired

shaped by past negative experiences

These feelings don't disqualify you. They simply remind you that mission is not something you do in your own strength. It's something you do with Jesus.

A Simple Practice for This Week

Sit quietly and ask:

"Jesus, who are You inviting me to love this week?"

Let the first name or face that comes to mind rise gently.

Then ask:

"What is one small step of love I can take toward them?"

Commit to that one step. Mission begins with one act of love.

Reflection Questions

Who is Jesus highlighting in your life right now

What fears or hesitations do you feel about mission

How has someone else's love or presence shaped your faith

What does mission look like in your everyday context

What small step of love can you take this week

Let your answers be honest and simple.

Closing Prayer

Jesus, thank You for inviting me into Your mission. Let Your love overflow through my life. Give me eyes to see where You are moving, ears to hear Your nudges, and courage to take small steps of love. Make me a witness of what I've seen You do, and draw others into Your family through my life. Amen.

Gentle Invitation to Movement 9

Next time, we'll explore renewal - how to return to Jesus again and again, and live a lifelong rhythm of grace and restoration.
